Chapter 1 by Story Wars

There I was, just one normal Saturday afternoon, playing the latest hot City of Bones game on my iPad, when the popup appeared. Become a Shadow hunter today! It said. Foolishly, I clicked it. A stylish tattoo of an eye seared itself onto my hand. I sat there, writhing in agony as the pain rippled from my arm into my whole body.

Then Demons attacked my house.

Chapter 2 by Anica

As the demons poured into my house I stood up. Suddenly there was a sword in my hand. As I swung at the closest demon the sword felt light in my hand. The demon withered in pain as it died slowly. Another demon lunged at me and I quickly moved out of the way. It was like my body knew what to do naturally even if I had no idea what was going on. I sliced and doged attacks moving as if it was a dance. Once all the demons were gone what ever instinct that had helped me was gone. I stood breathless in my living room looking at the carpet full of demon blood and thought "what have I done?"

Chapter 3 by Laura Frost

My phone buzzed.

"Congratulations! You have passed the test, and are now a Shadow hunter! Fight with the best, climb the ranks, and achieve ultimate power! Only one from your group can become Ruler of your Universe!"

oooooooooh, Ultimate power. Hi See more of Story Wars

It buzzed again. "For your

I looked at the sword. It was long and elegant. The metal gave off a faintly blue shine. "Alright sword, let's go hunt some shadows."

It hummed a little in response. Somewhat sentient sword. Cool.

Shoving my iPad and some basic supplies into my backpack, I headed out the door and towards the nearest park.

This was going to be fun.

Chapter 4 by Laura Frost

The first thing I notice when I leave my apartment is the lack of people. I live in a city, so, this is unusual.

I glance around. Cars have stopped, nobody sits behind their wheels. Streets are empty. It's as if people were just zapped out of existence, everybody except me, that is.

My phone buzzes.

"Your Shadow hunter, The Infernal Devices, Round One Adventure will begin after this short announcement!"

Dramatic music begins to play. It is the only sound I can hear. I watch as a figure with a sword runs around slashing shadowy figures.

"Adventure! Heroics! Battles! Only one can rise to the top and achieve ULTIMATE POWER! Four players. Beat them all, challenge the champion, and you win! But don't forget about the endless army of demons! Remember Shadow hunter- always watch your back! Note: Nonlethal attacks only when fighting other players. First blood wins the duel."

Nervous, I turn around and see a group of demons approaching. I raise my sword and it hums in anticipation and excitement. Probably. It's humming.

My phone buzzes again.

"Alert! Enemy Shadow hunter approaching your location!"

I slay the demons with both speed and skill. Not to mention style and a healthy dose of awesome. That done, look around me for this enemy guy I'm supposed to fight.

He comes rushing around a corner, faster than I've seen anyone move. The demons were easy.

This guy? not so much.
